

Leave a Mark, Not a Stain!

Developing the Learning Power of Humor

Patt Schwab, Ph.D., CSP

Rubber chickens—they're not just for banquets any more!

Used well, humor is a mark of self-confidence, intelligence and an ability to connect effectively with others.

Used incorrectly, it leaves a stain of ill will that can last for years.

Ignored entirely, it creates apathy and diminishes learning.

The purpose of Dr. Schwab's presentation is to acknowledge humor as the interpersonal skill, learning aid and management tool it really is. She highlights it's ability to:

- Help convey and retain information.
- Make the workplace/classroom more enjoyable for faculty, staff and students.
- Enhance creativity and productivity.
- Help keep perspective and reduce stress in trying times.
- Build staff and student loyalty and retention.

This is a great opportunity to have some laughs, catch up on leading edge research about workplace humor, and at the same time, learn how to increase the "smileage" in your personal and professional life.

Get the book! →

(Quantity discounts available at:
Sales@FundamentallySpeaking.com)

Find out what every leader needs to know about using humor in the workplace

Reach Dr. Patt Schwab at: www.FUNDamentallySpeaking.com

Blog: RubberChickenoftheMonthClub.com

voice: (206) 525-1031 e-mail: patt@FUNDamentallySpeaking.com

